BEER TRIVIA

According to a diary entry from a passenger on the Mayflower, the pilgrims made their landing at Plymouth Rock, rather than continue to their destination in Virginia, due to lack of beer.

The word "bridal" comes from 19th century Englishmen, who took out their mates for a final "Bride Ale" the day before their wedding.

Monks brewing beer in the Middle Ages were allowed to drink five quarts of beer a day.

Centuries ago in England, pub visitors used a novel innovation that enabled them to get their beer served quickly. They used mugs with a whistle baked into the rim, the whistle being used to summon the barmaid. It has been suggested this practice gave birth to the phrase "wet your whistle."

Beer is the third most popular beverage in the world, coming in behind tea and water.

The oldest known written recipe is for beer.

"Once it hits your lips, it's so good!"
— Frank Ricard

"Without question, the greatest invention in the history of mankind is beer. Oh, I grant you that the wheel was also a fine invention, but the wheel does not go nearly as well with pizza." — Dave Barry

"Beer, it's the best damn drink in the world." — Jack Nicholson

“If you ever reach total enlightenment while drinking beer, I bet it makes beer shoot out your nose.” — Jack Handy

BEER STYLES

Amber Ale
This style tends to focus on the malts, but hop character can range from low to high. Expect a balanced beer with toasted malt characters and a light fruitiness

Amber Lager
Toasted caramel malts with a gentle sweetness and balanced addition of hops

American Wheat Ale
These beers can take on both wheat and rye characters with spicy or floral noble hop flavors

Belgian-Style Wit
Also known as “witbier” or “weissbier,” white beers are made using unmalted wheat, sometimes oats and malted barley and use flavorings such as coriander and orange peel. They typically have a hazy appearance

Brown Ale
Light, sweet malt aromas with toffee, toasted nuts and sometimes caramel notes with a fresh hop aroma

Double IPA
Take an India Pale Ale and feed it steroids, ergo the term Double IPA. Expect something robust, malty and alcoholic with a huge hop profile

English-Style Bitter
Golden to copper colored with enhanced hop bitterness balanced with malty aromas

All styles of beer fall into either one of two categories: ales or lagers. There are then numerous subcategories of different “styles” that fall under both categories

ALES are brewed with malted barley using a warm fermentation process, which allows the yeasts to ferment quickly imparting a sweet, full-bodied and fruity taste. Most contain hops, which impart a bitter herbal flavor that balances the sweetness of the malt

LAGERS are brewed at lower temperatures and are typically easy drinking, light in body and mild in taste. They typically have a clean flavor and crisp finish

Fruit
Fruit beers are typically ales or lagers and can be made with many different kinds of fruit to enhance the flavor and experience

India Pale Ale
Commonly abbreviated as “IPA,” this version of a pale ale employs a significant amount of hops originally to help it make the voyage overseas. The added hops give a strong floral note with high bitterness, complementing a higher alcohol content

Light Pale Lager
Pale yellow in color and low in hops with flavors ranging from slightly malty to slightly bitter

Maibock/Helles Bock
This style of beer tends to be lighter in color than other bock beers and often has a significant hop character with noticeable alcohol content around the same as a traditional bock

Doppelbock
Doppelbock or double bock is rich and malty, with toasty notes and noticeable alcoholic strength, and little or no detectable hops. Brewers of modern doppelbocks often add “-ator” to their beer’s name as a signpost of the style

Pale Ale & Extra Pale Ale
Gold to amber in color with the flavor and aroma centered around the citrus and pine character of American hops

Pale Lager
Pale to golden-colored lagers that are dry, clean-tasting and crisp with subtle flavors

Pilsner
Straw to pale in color and hoppy with a malty residual sweetness in aroma and flavor

Stout
Stouts are dark beers made using roasted malt or barley. The dark roast gives the beer its unique flavor and color, often with a toasty or coffee-like taste
